3 Officer's Assessment and Recommendations

DETERMINING ISSUES

The determining issues are:

- do the proposals harm the character or appearance of the conservation area? If they do, there is a strong presumption against the granting of permission;
- do the proposals preserve the building or its setting or any features of special architectural or historic interest which it possesses? If they do not, there is a presumption against the granting of permission. For the purposes of this issue, "preserve", in relation to a building, means preserve it either in its existing state or subject only to such alterations or extensions as can be carried out without serious detriment to its character;
- do the proposals comply with the development plan?
- if the proposals do comply with the development plan, are there any compelling reasons for not approving them?
- if the proposals do not comply with the development plan, are there any compelling reasons for approving them?

ASSESSMENT

To address the determining issues, the Committee needs to consider:

- a) whether the advertisements have an adverse impact on the character or appearance of the conservation area, or the setting of the listed building;
 - b) whether the advertisements are detrimental to public safety.
- a) The character of the New Town Conservation Area is described as follows:-

"A planned urban concept of European significance, the New Town has an overriding character of Georgian formality. The First New Town, built to James Craig's 1767 plan, has experienced significant redevelopment, while the Second, Third and Fourth New Towns, which were laid out on estates to the north, east and west retain most of their original buildings. Stone built terrace houses and tenements, built to the highest standards, overlook communal private gardens; to the rear are lanes with mews buildings, many of which are now in housing use. The importance of the area therefore lies in the formal plan layout of buildings, streets, mews and gardens and in the quality of the buildings themselves. Many of the New Town's buildings are listed category 'A' of national importance and the area contains some of the city's finest interiors."

The advertisement blinds at first floor level constitute high level advertising, which is contrary to the statutory and non-statutory policies and would set a precedent if approved. The retention of this form of advertising would adversely impact on the building and the character and appearance of the conservation area. As the existing building retains its overall domestic appearance the addition of these high level advertisements introduces a greater commercial appearance to this building and diminishes its special character.

b) The advertising is not detrimental to public safety.

The retrospective works do not comply with the development plan and non-statutory policies, have an adverse effect on the character and appearance of the conservation area and the listed building, but have no detrimental impact on public safety.

There are no material planning considerations which outweigh this conclusion.

It is recommended that the Committee refuses this application and initiates enforcement action to secure the removal of the first floor signs as the high level advertisements are detrimental to the character of the listed building and the character and appearance of the conservation area.
