Explanation

Less local green spaces would be distroied. Taking away any green space is an absolute shame and would cause 1000 different problems but this is especially the case in the south east of Edinburgh. Not only is the area forgotten about the council and contains the second highest poverty rate in Scotland but ALL of the green spaces that has been marked for the city plan 2030 Orwell used by residents, small businesses, community centres and 100 other types of people. The South East of Edinburgh contains a well of different people in all sorts of situations! A lot of these people rely on their green space to walk the dog, to play with their children, to get outside once a day, to attend local fun days or even just Sundays on the revocation Scotland gets a little bit of sun, it's scientifically proven that green space is not only are key to keeping the environment well but they also have a huge positive factor on the well-being of people's mental health.

To state that inch park is under used if utterly false! Not only are Edinburgh council planning on ripping smaller green spaces away from the surrounding areas (for example moredun yeil) but now you're trying to claim inch park is underused? Inch park is the biggest local green space. It is used by countless residents, associations and small businesses. To build on it would be destroying a much used space as well as damaging the environment further and putting more of a strain on the local infrastructure! The doctors surgeries, dentists, police, schools and countless other things would have to take an enormous strain. The fact that Edinburgh council wants to pump more people into the south east is abhorrent!

It would remove space for moredun flats needed to meet new 5ha standard. As stated before not only would you be damaging the echo system by removing local green spaces you'd also harm local infrastructure as well as removing well used green spaces from residents, community centers, small business owners and countless others.
